

'The performers took the time to listen to the accommodations required for our [Diverse Access Needs] students and were able to adjust this performance to engage our learners. Their storytelling abilities were exceptional and the composition of original music on the day with ideas from our students was awesome.'

– Newcastle Middle School, NSW

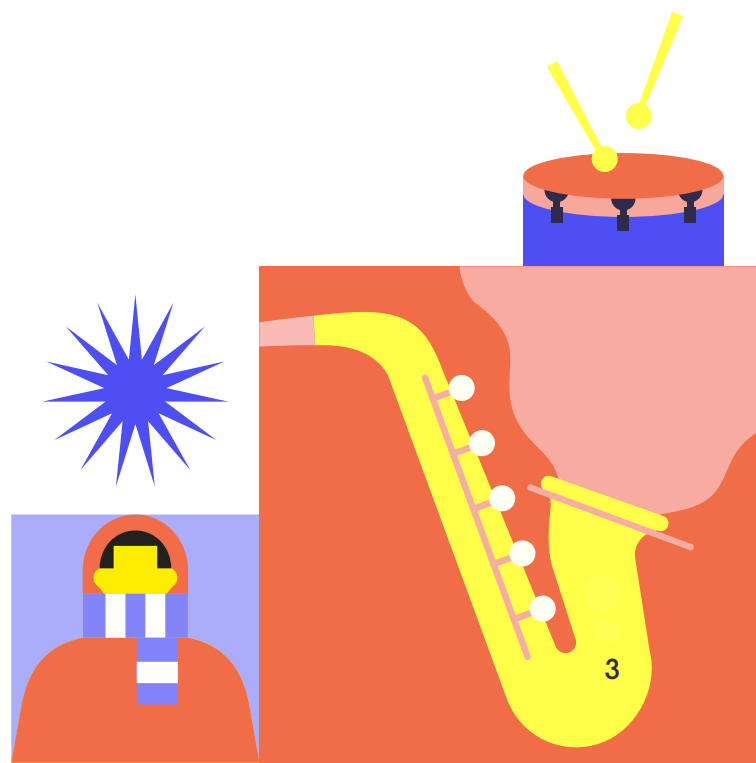

'The performers were engaging and so full of enthusiasm and the students just embraced the performance as a result. They were also super inclusive, celebrating the different languages and cultures of the students as well as also making it accessible for all.'

– Kingston Primary School, WA

Acknowledgement Of Country

In the spirit of reconciliation Musica Viva Australia acknowledges the Traditional Custodians of country throughout Australia and their connection to land, sea and community.

We pay our respects to Elders past and present: people who have sung their songs, danced their dances and told their stories on these lands for thousands of generations, and we extend that respect to all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples today.

‘We’re genuinely committed to ensuring a music-rich future for all Australians. With the largest touring footprint of any music education program in the country, we’re focused on access, reaching students in communities where our show might be the only live music they experience all year.’

– Cassandra Lake, Director of Education, speaking to Limelight

In 2026 we’re thrilled to celebrate 45 years as one of the country’s leading providers of music education.

Since 1981, Musica Viva Australia’s Education Program has supported classrooms nationwide, nurturing creativity and a lifelong love of music in students and teachers alike, and we’re proud to continue that legacy with you in the year ahead.

Our Education Program offers a suite of activities that span the entire year, designed to engage, educate, and inspire. Our shows bring Australia’s finest musicians into classrooms across the country, delivering culturally diverse, interactive performances that spark curiosity and joy. In 2025, over 50 exceptional musicians will reach more than 200,000 students offering unforgettable learning experiences through live, in-school concerts.

Our commitment to music education extends far beyond in-school performances. We support thousands of teachers through curriculum-aligned digital learning resources and professional development, including in-person workshops, online webinars, and our specialised 12-week Music Education Skills for the Primary Classroom course.

In 2026, we unveil our redesigned Education Resource Platform which has been created with educators like you in mind. With a fresh, user-friendly interface and improved access to teaching resources, it offers even more ways to bring music to life in your classroom.

Our Music Education Residency program continues to provide immersive, multi-year music instruction in select schools. Through active music-making and capacity-building for teachers, this initiative helps embed sustainable music programs that have a lasting impact.

Next year, we’re expanding even further — reaching more schools, more communities, and more students across Australia. With the continued support of our musicians, teaching artists, and valued partners, we remain dedicated to ensuring that every student has access to the social and educational benefits of quality music education.

We extend continued thanks to our musicians, teaching artists and partners who work with us and inspire us to deliver on our Education vision to enhance children’s appreciation of music and boost their creativity.

We look forward to sharing the joy of music with you in 2026.

How To Book

1. Pick your performance

Select your performance from our range of culturally and musically diverse ensembles. Discover our touring shows on the following pages and find out when they are coming to you live in 2026.

Live online performances may be available for regions where we are not touring live. Please contact your state office for more information.

2. Book your professional development webinar

Your booking includes access to a free professional development webinar to support and complement your Musica Viva Australia In Schools show. Each webinar is tailored to the show you've booked, guiding you through the education resources and introducing you to some of the musicians coming to your school.

Sessions will run after school hours from Monday 23 February to Thursday 5 March 2026. Registrations open 1 September 2025 at musicaviva.com.au/pd. Please note: webinars are not recorded for distribution.

3. Explore the new Musica Viva Australia In Schools Education Resource Platform

Every booking includes at least a term's worth of education resources to help you and other teachers at your school bring music into the classroom and prepare your students for the performance.

Key features:

- Up to 12 weeks of curriculum-aligned lesson activities
- Interactive content that brings the musicians into the classroom with instructional videos
- Student facing materials to encourage independent learning
- Resources that are curriculum-aligned to all four national and state curricula

To access your resources, visit musicaviva.com.au/educationresources and login with your username and password provided to you prior to your performance.

4. Explore additional professional development opportunities

Now that you have booked your 2026 program, explore our other PD opportunities including face-to-face and online workshops to give you the confidence and tools to teach music.

New online and in-person PD opportunities in each State are added regularly throughout the year. Visit musicaviva.com.au/pd for up-to-date information and new opportunities.

El Camino

A journey into culture and music

El Camino ('The Journey') is an immersive show developed with the Australian group Sonido. El Camino celebrates the music of the performers' Latin American heritage alongside musical influences from their home in culturally vibrant Western Sydney. Hear songs in ancient languages, performed with traditional instruments like the zampoñas (pan-flute), charango (10-string guitar) and bombo (cow-hide drum), as the musicians share the heart and soul of their cultures.

'El Camino is about celebrating both sides of who we are, Chilean and Australian. Through the music and stories we share, we hope students see that being Australian can mean having many different cultural roots, and that's something to be proud of.'

Life is an Echo

Space, stillness, and shared music

Of Japanese, Taiwanese and Singaporean heritage, the musicians of San Ureshi draw on their diverse backgrounds to share the rich traditions of Asian music. Performing on erhu, guzheng and a range of percussion instruments, they create a sound world in this meditative and immersive show. Students are invited to reflect on the power of tone and silence, learning how music can help create space for themselves and others. Life is an Echo is more than a musical performance, it's an invitation to pause, listen, and consider how we relate to one another through the arts.

'Students loved the performance, thank you. It was a very special moment for one of our students to be able to go up and play one of the instruments.'

Lost Histories

Self-discovery through music

'Who am I? Where did I come from? How would I like to be remembered?' These are some of the questions explored in the songs of Troy Russell, a Biripai and Gamillaroï musician and composer whose work reflects his rich personal connection to history and place. By experiencing these songs performed by a trio of outstanding Australian artists, students are given the opportunity to reflect on and engage with their own sense of history and place. Sparking their creativity and encouraging curious investigation, students will be inspired to take a journey of self-discovery.

'Our students thoroughly enjoyed the performance, they were engaged and enjoyed being a part of the performance. Our students were able to experience a performance that they would not normally get a chance to participate in.'

On The Wireless

NEW

We're on air!

Broadcasting live into your school hall, On The Wireless is a playful tribute to the golden age of radio – packed with music, humour and interactive fun.

This vibrant show brings the crackle of vintage radio to life while mixing it with the sounds and energy of today. Students become the live studio audience for a fast-paced musical broadcast, complete with saxophone solos, a trip to Brazil, and a catchy jingle or two. Blending retro flair with contemporary sounds, the accompanying education resources give students the chance to create their own podcast episode or live show in the classroom.

Engaging, energetic and full of charm, On The Wireless will have every listener tuning in and turning up the volume.

Rhythm Works

Creating with percussion

Rhythm Works are a dynamic percussion duo who show students how to create visual images – such as lizards, waterfalls, road trains, and carnivals – through music. In this high energy show, students are introduced to a range of instruments from African djembes, marimbas, electronic loop machines, Boomwhackers, and wearable instruments made out of PVC pipe! Students are shown ways to create their own musical imagery in the classroom or at home.

'The performance was brilliant. The students loved it and really enjoyed the interactive nature of the show. Thank you very much for making it possible for our small school to attend.'

Roads We Travel

NEW

Where the rhythm goes

Music moves – across borders, between people, and through time.

Led by a dynamic trio of multi-instrumentalists who are also music educators, this interactive show invites students to discover how music connects us all. Roads We Travel brings together percussion, strings, and woodwinds in a vibrant exploration of global musical traditions. Inspired by folk and regional music from across the world, the performance celebrates creativity, collaboration, and the joy of making music together.

From body percussion and call-and-response to shared rhythms and group improvisation, students are invited to actively take part in the show – no instruments required. Along the way, they'll learn about the core elements of music, all brought to life through storytelling, movement and musical connection.

Two Wheel Time Machine

Finding your musical balance

Two Wheel Time Machine takes students and teachers on a journey to discover that performing and creating music is just like learning to ride a bike. Inspired by the musicians' unique musical palette of indie-rock, jazz, and conventional chamber music, students will learn how music can be created through happy accidents as they lose their training wheels and discover that, with the right attitude anything is possible!

'This is such a great opportunity for the students to learn about different aspects of music and to experience live music, especially for small schools.'

Water Rhythms

Rhythm, water and movement

Be enchanted by the rhythm and flow of water in this dynamic performance as these talented performers bring together music, movement and visual storytelling.

Through an engaging blend of percussion, soundscapes, and contemporary dance, students explore how rhythm and movement can reflect the natural world.

As the performers respond to each other in real time, students learn to listen deeply, interpret sound through movement, and express themselves through their own bodies. This highly immersive show encourages students to connect rhythm and motion, sparking new ways of thinking about music, dance and self-expression.

'We absolutely loved seeing our students (and teachers!) chosen as volunteers to go up on stage and assist the musicians with the performance - such a highlight for everyone involved as well as the audience!'

Torres Strait song and dance

While childhood games may just seem like pure fun, they are also an important record of our history. From spinning tops to string figures, this wildly entertaining and colourfully-costumed ensemble shows how culture and history are passed on through singing, dancing and games. By comparing their own childhood games to those from the Torres Strait, students come to understand the importance of traditions, and to be thankful to those who teach them.

‘[The students] enjoyed the First Nations stories and games and interacted so well with the performers. The cultural storytelling and connections were outstanding.’

Education Resource Platform

Every booking through the Musica Viva Australia In Schools program includes access to our Education Resource Platform – available to your whole school. Once your school has booked a show, you'll have ongoing access to the resources, so you can return to them year after year to enrich your students' learning.

Created in collaboration with music education specialists, the refreshed and improved platform features a new look, user-friendly interface, enhanced functionality, and easier navigation. It offers comprehensive support for classroom and specialist teachers, with engaging, curriculum-aligned learning activities that connect directly to each show.

You'll find detailed concert guides, musician bios, repertoire insights, visual stories, cultural protocol statements, and cross-curricular integration ideas; all designed to enrich your teaching and your students' learning experience.

Each show includes

- Up to 12 weeks of curriculum-aligned lesson plans
- Interactive content that brings the musicians into the classroom with instructional videos
- Student facing materials to encourage independent learning
- Resources that are curriculum-aligned to all four national and state curricula

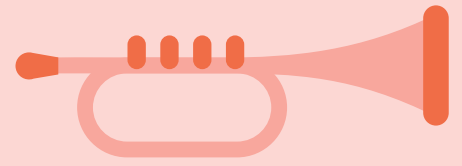

No matter your level of music teaching experience, our Education Resource Platform offers the tools and inspiration to bring music education to life.

'I LOVE the Musica Viva resources. They are perfectly aligned to the curriculum, with activities that can be easily differentiated for Stages 1, 2 and 3. Our whole Term 2 unit was created around the Musica Viva performance.'

– Summer Hill Public School, NSW

Music Education Residency Program

‘Students’ overall feeling after a performance or class is one of joy; not only because they had fun, but because they were challenged and were able to overcome obstacles and achieve individually or collectively. This gives them a sense of accomplishment and increases their confidence in their own abilities.’

– Residency Teaching Artist, Morphett Vale East Primary School, SA

The Musica Viva Australia Music Education Residency Program focuses on individual schools, typically located in areas of socio-economic disadvantage. This three-year immersive program is designed to support the implementation of a comprehensive and effective music education program.

By providing select schools with a professional teaching artist, live music performances, tailored learning resources and instruments, the program supports schools to develop the skills and confidence to have agency over program delivery. Ongoing support and experiential learning is then provided through the Musica Viva Australia In Schools program including access to a portfolio of free professional development and education resources.

We work with primary schools to ensure that music education becomes an integral part of the school’s culture ensuring that generations of children receive the educational and intrinsic benefits of a quality music education.

In 2024, the program delivered 14 Music Education Residencies across Perth, Adelaide, Melbourne and Sydney — comprising 630 residency teaching days and engaging more than 3,200 students. We are proud to deliver quality music education programs to those who need it most, including culturally and linguistically diverse communities, as well as schools supporting students with additional access needs.

Musica Viva Australia are a proud supporter of the Music Education: Right from the Start collaborative national initiative, led by Alberts | The Tony Foundation. This initiative is driven by our collective belief in the power of music to change lives.

Professional Development

Musica Viva Australia's Education program provides teachers professional development opportunities to support their teaching of music education in Australian schools. Teachers can attend face-to-face and online workshops - many of them offered free of charge - that are designed for both general classroom and music specialist teachers across all states and territories.

All professional development workshops are curriculum aligned to the relevant State music syllabus and aligned to AITSL Professional Standards for Teachers.

Our online and face-to-face professional development opportunities are updated regularly throughout the year. Visit musicaviva.com.au/pd for up-to-date information and new workshop sessions.

Music Education Skills for the Primary Classroom course

Music Education Skills for the Primary Classroom is a 12-week online course that will build your skills and confidence in teaching music in the primary classroom.

Moderated and supervised by an experienced music educator, who will provide feedback and encouragement over 14 hours of learning, the course provides a general introduction to primary music education. Music Education Skills for the Primary Classroom is aimed at general classroom teachers with minimal music teaching experience who wish to build their skills and confidence in teaching music in the primary classroom. Participants will gain practical skills and creative ideas for use in their classroom.

'I was able to plan lessons and receive feedback about how to better engage students and use teaching strategies that support students learning. This has been an amazing experience; I have become so much more confident in my teaching of music.'
